Hughes Named "MSSP of the Year" by CyberSecurity Breakthrough

October 15, 2024

Recognized as a leading managed security service provider

GERMANTOWN, Md., Oct. 15, 2024 /PRNewswire/ -- Hughes Network Systems, an EchoStar company (Nasdaq: SATS), announced it was named the 2024 Managed Security Service Provider (MSSP) of the Year by CyberSecurity Breakthrough. The award recognized Hughes as a leading MSSP that provides businesses of all sizes with managed network and security solutions.

"As cybercriminals become increasingly sophisticated, it is essential to have the right tools and expertise to protect your business," said Dan Rasmussen, senior vice president and general manager, Enterprise Division, Hughes. "Our experience managing large networks gives Hughes an advantage, and we're dedicated to safeguarding organizations against cyber threats and attacks. Customer networks are not one-size-fits-all, so we work together with businesses to create solutions tailored to their network."

As an MSSP, Hughes services include 24/7 monitoring, threat detection, and response. Hughes takes a hands-on approach, ensuring organizations are always one step ahead of potential attacks.

CyberSecurity Breakthrough is a leading independent market intelligence organization that honors the top companies, technologies, and products in the global information security market. The awards recognize innovation, hard work, and success in a range of information security categories. There were thousands of nominations from over 20 different countries this year.

Hughes offers managed SASE that provides businesses additional layers of security without slowing down their network with additional downloads, monitoring tools, and configurations. Hughes also offers additional security controls, such as managed detection and response (MDR), network detection and response (NDR), ransomware and zero-day prevention, and unified threat management (UTM). Organizations can also take advantage of managed network services such as Wi-Fi, VoIP, digital signage, and more.
