[Letterhead of Congress of the United States - House of Representatives]

March 22, 2002

The Honorable John Ashcroft
Attorney General
Department of Justice
950 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20530

The Honorable Michael Powell
Chairman
Federal Communications Commission
445 12th Street, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20554

Dear Attorney General Ashcroft and Chairman Powell:

I am writing to ask for your approval of the proposed merger between EchoStar and DIRECTV. The positive outcome of this merger would greatly benefit millions of Hispanic families by offering additional targeted services and delivering increased access to affordable high speed Internet service. In addition, for Latinos living in rural areas and for those who live among populations without a larger Hispanic community, the merger would bring additional Spanish programming options, including educational and cultural channels.

An October 2000 report from the U.S. Department of Commerce highlighted that Anglos are more likely to have access to the Internet from home than African-Americans or Hispanics – by nearly double the amount of households as a percentage of population. In towns with populations of 10,000 or less, the likelihood of households gaining access to cable modem service is only 5 percent versus 65percent for cities of 250,000 people or more. Many of these under-served areas include large Hispanic populations.

Both EchoStar and DIRECTV has taken extra steps to provide family-oriented programming, weather, sports and news in Spanish – including programming from the Caribbean and Latin America. The combined company will also be able to offer local broadcast stations in up to 100 local TV markets, many of which include Univision, Telemundo or Telefutera stations. The merger also holds the promise of allowing more independent networks and more Spanish language programming to flourish and prosper.

As a Member of Congress representing tens of thousands of Hispanics, I have sought new avenues to bridge the digital divide, including support for League of United Latin American Citizen's (LULAC), "Empower Hispanic America With Technology" project. I fully support LULAC's position on the proposed merger and ask for your favorable consideration.

In light of the disparity of access to broadband services – and the fact that broadband may not reach the communities where Latinos live for years to come – I am deeply concerned with the outcome of this merger. I strongly urge your support for the EchoStar/DIRECTV merger. For consumers, for competition and as an immediate answer to technology access, the pending merger presents a significant opportunity to address the issue of the digital divide. On a national policy level, we have an opportunity to offer satellite broadband access to Hispanic homes and businesses that, up to now, have little or no chance of receiving digital cable or fiber-optic broadband access.

Sincerely,

/s/ Silvestre Reyes

Silvestre Reyes
Member of Congress

ECHOSTAR AND DIRECTV – IMPROVING CHOICE AND VARIETY FOR THE HISPANIC COMMUNITY

The Merger

- The proposed merger between EchoStar's DISH Network and Hughes Electronics' DIRECTV would allow the combined company to offer an even greater variety of Spanish-language programming than is offered today. Currently, the two companies carry largely duplicative programming, thereby inefficiently utilizing limited spectrum. The merger would free up this limited spectrum and enable the new company to launch more independent networks that otherwise could not be carried, like those that carry programming from Caribbean, Latin American, and South American countries.
- The combined company will also be able to offer local broadcast stations in all U.S. TV markets, some of which include Univision, Telemundo, Telefutera, and TV Azteca stations, using one consumer-friendly mini-dish. In addition, the economies of scale achieved by the merger will support a competitively priced, high-speed Internet service via satellite, helping bridge the digital divide.

Programming

- EchoStar's DISH Network and DIRECTV offer more television viewing options for Spanish-dominant and bilingual households in the U.S. than any cable television system. Before the launch of the DISH Latino and DIRECTV PARA TODOS™ Spanish-language packages, the only television programming available for Spanish speaking consumers was Univision and Telemundo, and those channels were only available in limited markets.
- Many of the fastest growing Hispanic markets (e.g., Raleigh-Durham, Greenville, NC) do not have local off-air Univision or Telemundo affiliates. Hispanic households in these markets can keep in touch with their language and culture through the Spanish-language offerings of EchoStar and DIRECTV.

- EchoStar offers 3 Spanish language packages:
 - > DISH Latino includes 22 Spanish-language channels for $20.99 per month
 - > DISH Latino Dos includes 22 Spanish-language and 22 English channels for $31.99 per month
 - > DISH Latino Max includes 22 Spanish-language and over 60 English channels for $39.99 per month
- DIRECTV offers 6 bilingual packages:
 - > Opción Extra Especial® includes more than 125 Spanish and English channels for $31.99 per month
 - > Opción Extra Especial® with Local Channels for $37.99 per month
 - > Opción Ultra Especial™ includes more than 145 Spanish and English channels for $35.99 per month
 - > Opción Ultra Especial™ with Local Channels for $39.99 per month
 - Opción Premier™ includes Opción Ultra Especial™, HBO®, Cinemax, STARZ!®, SHOWTIME® and Sports Pack, more than 200 channels for $81.99 per month
 - > Opcion Premier™ with Local Channels for $85.99 per month
- In 18 markets for EchoStar, and 19 markets for DIRECTV, at least one of the local Spanish language broadcasters Univision, Telemundo, Telefutera, or TV Azteca is included in the local station package available to subscribers for $5.99 per month.
- EchoStar offers the Spanish-language public interest channel Hispanic Information & Telecommunications Network (HITN). HITN's programming provides a cultural and educational link between the nation's fastest growing ethnic group and an increasingly complex American society. Offering Spanish-language television services, HITN was the first Hispanic Network of Public Television. In addition, DIRECTV offers Clara+Vision and EWTN Réd Global Católica (Eternal Word Television Network). Clara+Vision promotes the well being of the entire family by focusing on cultural, artistic, educational and moral issues. EWTN is a global Catholic network with Spanish programming from more than a dozen countries.

Retailers

- There are more than 1,400 Hispanic retailers across the country selling the DISH Network.

Employees

- EchoStar employs more than 2,300 Hispanic employees representing about 20% of the entire workforce. These employees work at all levels, with the majority serving as bilingual installers and customer service representatives. EchoStar's El Paso, TX Call Center, launched in January 2000, has 1,750 employees, of which 80% are Hispanic and bilingual.
- More than 800 bilingual customer service, technical support, and sales jobs have been created to support the DIRECTV PARA TODOS™ and DIRECTV English-language services.

Merger Supporters within the Hispanic Community

- Congressman Silvestre Reyes (D-TX) – The Chairman of the Congressional Hispanic Caucus, in a letter dated March 22, 2002, strongly urged Federal Communications Commission Chairman Powell and U.S. Attorney General Ashcroft to support the EchoStar/Hughes merger. He wrote, "The positive outcome of this merger would greatly benefit millions of Hispanic families by offering additional targeted services and delivering increased access to affordable high speed Internet service."
- League of United Latin American Citizens (LULAC) - In a February 5, 2002 letter sent to FCC Chairman Powell, the oldest and largest Hispanic civil rights organization in the nation endorsed the merger because it "would provide improved communications services to the nation's Hispanic community," including access to affordable high speed Internet service and improved Spanish-language programming.

GM and its directors and executive officers, Hughes and certain of its officers, and EchoStar and certain of its executive officers may be deemed to be participants in GM's solicitation of consents from the holders of GM $1-2/3 common stock and GM Class H common stock in connection with the proposed transactions.
