EchoStar and DIRECTV present benefits of merger to Pennsylvania

Harrisburg, PA – Yesterday EchoStar Communications Corporation and Hughes Electronics Corporation hosted a demonstration for key legislative staff, opinion leaders and members of the press, showcasing satellite-delivered digital television and high-speed Internet access. Senior executives from EchoStar and Hughes explained how the proposed merger between EchoStar Communications Corporation and Hughes Electronics' DIRECTV will make local TV channels available to every resident in Pennsylvania.

All 11 television markets in Pennsylvania will have access to their local television channels via satellite, which does not currently exist, enabling a fully competitive cable alternative if the merger is approved.

Consumers across the country will pay the same price for their Direct Broadcast Satellite services regardless of where they reside.

"The merger will also bridge the digital divide in Pennsylvania by providing consumers in every community with a competitively priced high speed broadband solution," states Arunas Sleky, senior executive of Hughes Electronics.

EchoStar Communications Corporation and Hughes Electronics Corporation announced the signing of definitive agreements that provide for the spin-off of Hughes from GM and the merger of Hughes with EchoStar on October 28, 2001.
